

U.S. WOMEN BAN DECOLETTE AT RACES IN PARIS

Americans Disdain Smart Continental Habit of Undressing for Afternoon Functions.

By C. F. BERTELLI, Universal Service.

PARIS, June 12.—The quiet taste and elegance of the gowns of the American women in the crowded Chantilly paddock yesterday showed in striking contrast to the extravagant styles worn by the French mannequins and actresses who descended to the bizarre even to the extent of putting beauty spots on their knees.

Judging from the styles displayed at the races, the fashionable women of today undresses for the afternoon and dresses for the evening, for while the Rue de la Paix arbiters decree a lace corsage covering for dinner and ball gowns the robes made for the races are bewilderingly décolleté with bare arms, and backs and shoulders frequently bare from the armpits to the waist.

The American women, however, disdained the extremes. Mrs. Vincent Astor wore a pale yellow frock of creamy charmeuse with a wide flapping hat trimmed with rare lace and flowers. She wore also dainty open-work sandals such as have been popularized for smart women by the famous Place Vendôme boot maker.

Mrs. Herman Oelrichs refused to depart from the invariable black, her gown being decorated with many yards of costly chintilly lace.

Mrs. Axel Wickfield's frock was of cream liberty satin and she was wearing magnificent pearls, which dazzled even the blasé race habitués.

Mrs. John Drexel looked young and cool in a black and white linen gown underneath a wide hat trimmed with roses. Mrs. Anthony I. Frank wore a lovely white organdie gown and small smart toque.

Others noted were Mary Garden, Ganna Walska, Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Field Malone, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lawrence, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Williams; Mr. and Mrs. John C. Livingston, Mrs. William Ellis Corey, Baron and Baroness de Meyer, Mrs. de Bretteville Spreckels, Mr. and Mrs. J. Addison Gowitz, Samuel Hill, the Seattle financier; Mr. and Mrs. L. Frank, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Lewis, of Chicago; Col. and Mrs. J. T. Trezevant, Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. "Jimmy" Corrigan.

RICKENBACKER'S TOUR IS CUT SHORT BY ACCIDENT

OMAHA, Neb., June 12.—Eddie Rickenbacker's all-metal monoplane was wrecked yesterday. No one was injured. Rickenbacker announced his continental flight would be abandoned. The engine went dead when the plane had reached an altitude of 100 feet after taking off here early this morning for North Platte, Neb. It crashed with its nose buried in the earth. Rickenbacker, Eddie Stinsons, his pilot, Sam Blair, Universal staff correspondent, and Steve Hannagan, Rickenbacker's personal biographer, were badly shaken up, but uninjured save for a few bruises.

PARIS, France. DRAWN threads is one of the coolest things a summer frock can offer in the way of trimming, and when the fabric is pale blue handkerchief linen, with a binding of white braid, nothing could be more deliciously fragile looking. Tuckings of the material indicate the waistline, and a tiny jabot drapery at one side balances a narrow frill at the other.

FIGURED foulard comes under the head of the smartest figured fabrics for this season. Against a background of black the most lifelike of tulips in red, gray and green bloom perpetually. The drapery is of an unusually attractive sort, with pipings of the black mouseline that makes the cuffs and the sash.

STORM CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE IN CLARENDON

Houses Unroofed and Crops Suffer As Severe Gale Sweeps County.

CLARENDON, Va., June 12.—Thousands of dollars' worth of damage was done to crops in northern Virginia as a result of the terrific electrical storm which struck about 8 o'clock last night. In addition many houses were unroofed in Arlington county, telephone and telegraph wires were torn down and the poultry on many farms was killed. The greatest damage to houses in Arlington county was reported from Hell's Bottom, below the Arlington Radio station. Many of flimsy homes in the Bottoms inhabited solely by colored people were entirely blown away, while roofs on scores of others were torn loose and blown about over the country side.

Potomac river camps above the Chain bridge also suffered heavily as the result of the storm. Roofs on the camps were blown off, while screens and side-walls were blown inward, causing the places to be inundated in many cases.

Three canoes filled with young men, who had made their way up to Great Falls, were overturned while the occupants were making their way back to their camp, but all held fast to the overturned craft and finally made their way to shore.

So far as could be learned there was no loss of life.

Telephone and telegraph officials, called out special repair crews last night, with the result that most of the damaged lines were in working order today.

Frank Lyon, who recently purchased the Pruitt estate here, consisting of 165 acres, in New York, where it is understood he will confer with prominent landscape gardeners, who will have charge of beautifying the property prior to its being cut up in subdivisions.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Clarendon citizens association will be held in the engine house tonight.

President C. R. Taylor has urged that all members possible attend as the erection of a new association building will be discussed fully.

It is expected that a decision on the Clarendon incorporation case will be handed down Thursday, June 15, by the Virginia appellate court, which has had the matter under advisement for the past three months.

George B. Robey, of Fairfax County, has been appointed examiner of records for the sixteenth judicial district, which embraces Arlington county, to succeed J. Parker Milburn, who has handed in his resignation to be effective July 15. Robey will take up his duties at that time. The new appointee has been identified with northern Virginia politics for many years having been born in Herndon and residing in that vicinity for nearly forty years. He was manager of Governor Trinkle's campaign in Fairfax county last year.

SKIRTS SHORT ACCORDING TO PARIS MODELS

Four Inches From Ground Is Style for Smartest Women on Boulevards.

By ALICE LANGLEIER, Cosmopolitan News Service.

PARIS, June 12.—The Battle of the Skirts has about ended. Midnights will still continue to show their shapely legs for some days to come for economical reasons, but fashionable women will heed the new decrees.

The long skirt now holds sway in Paris for afternoon and evening wear and at functions in the social world. Length in many cases is more apparent than real. The actual skirt stands at least six inches from the ground. Flowing side panels, elaborate fringes and filmy draperies of all kinds hang below the hem and necessitate careful usage on the part of the wearer to avert tripping.

For the tailor-made to be worn in town, skirts are a little longer and quite narrow. For the country and for sport, they are still short and wide enough for easy movement.

Cloaks and mantles have, of course, shared the general tendency of skirts and frocks.
